

Love the Environment
Coloring Journal

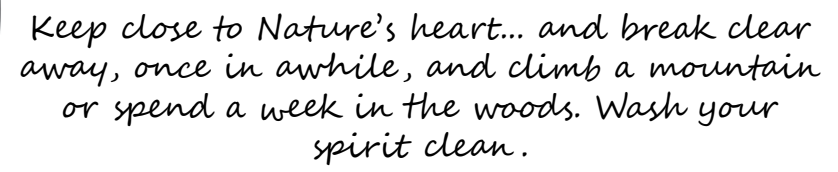

He that plants trees loves others beside himself.

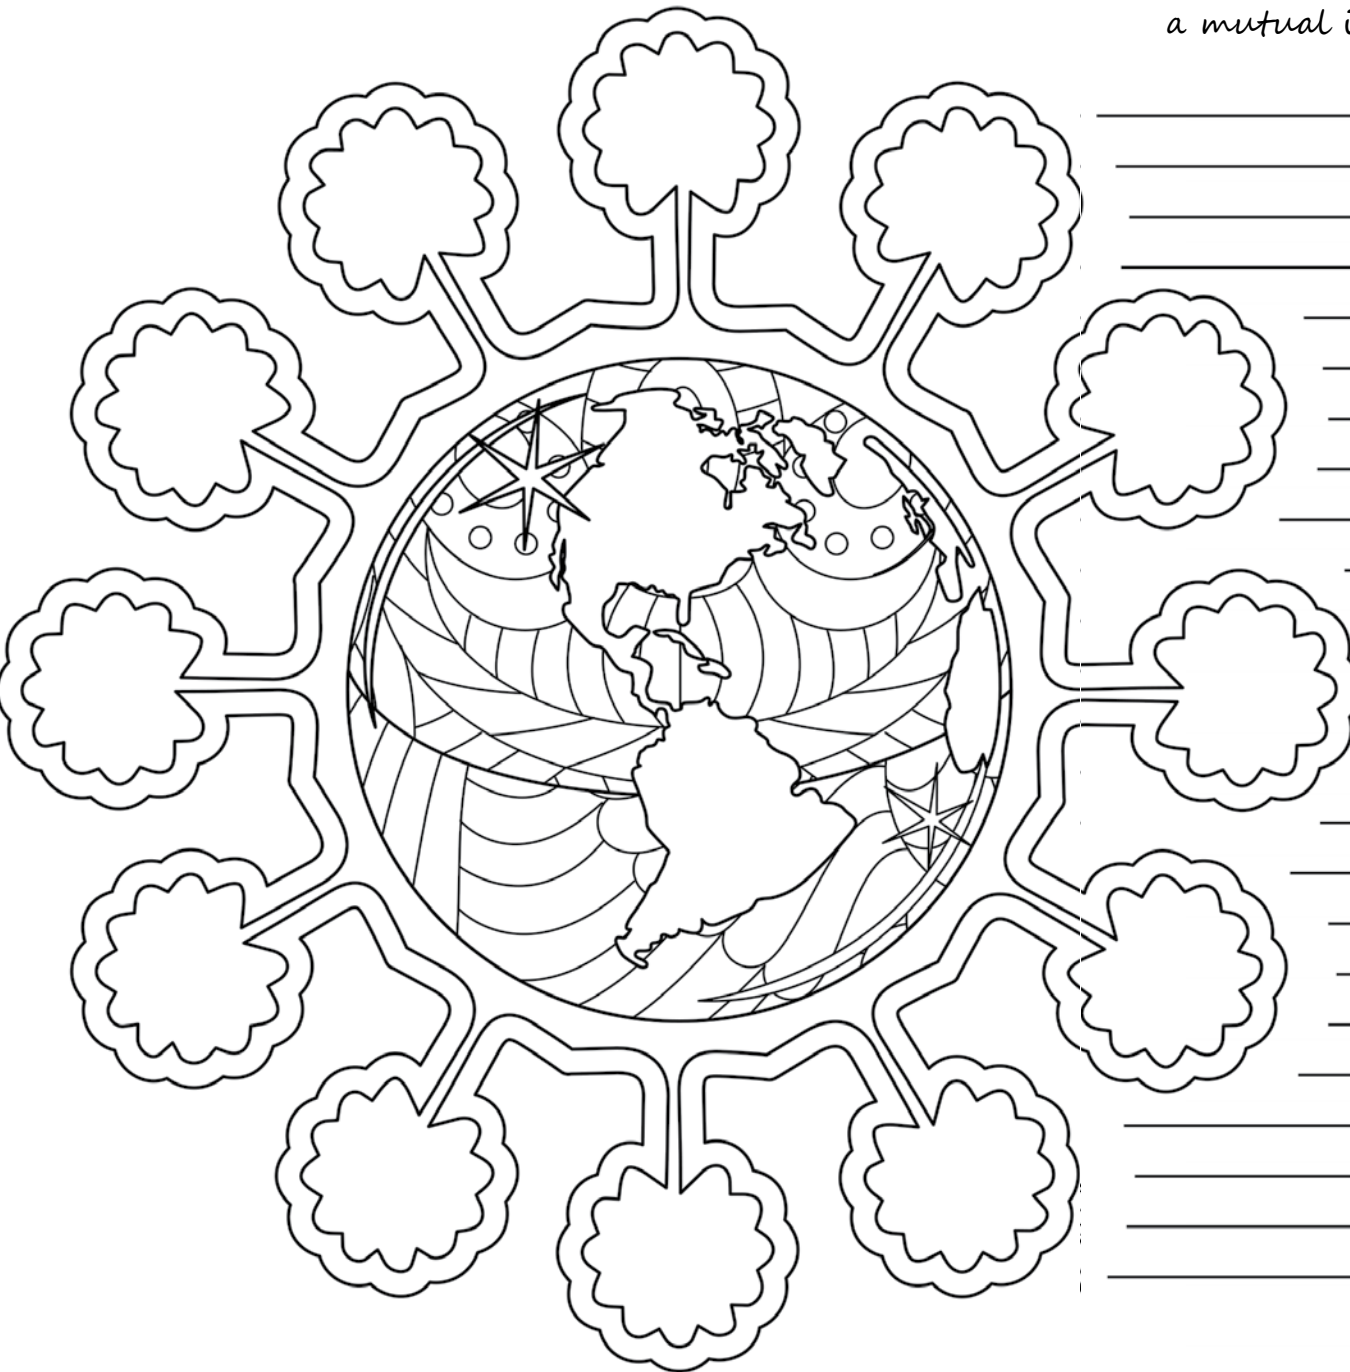

-Thomas Fuller

[illegible]

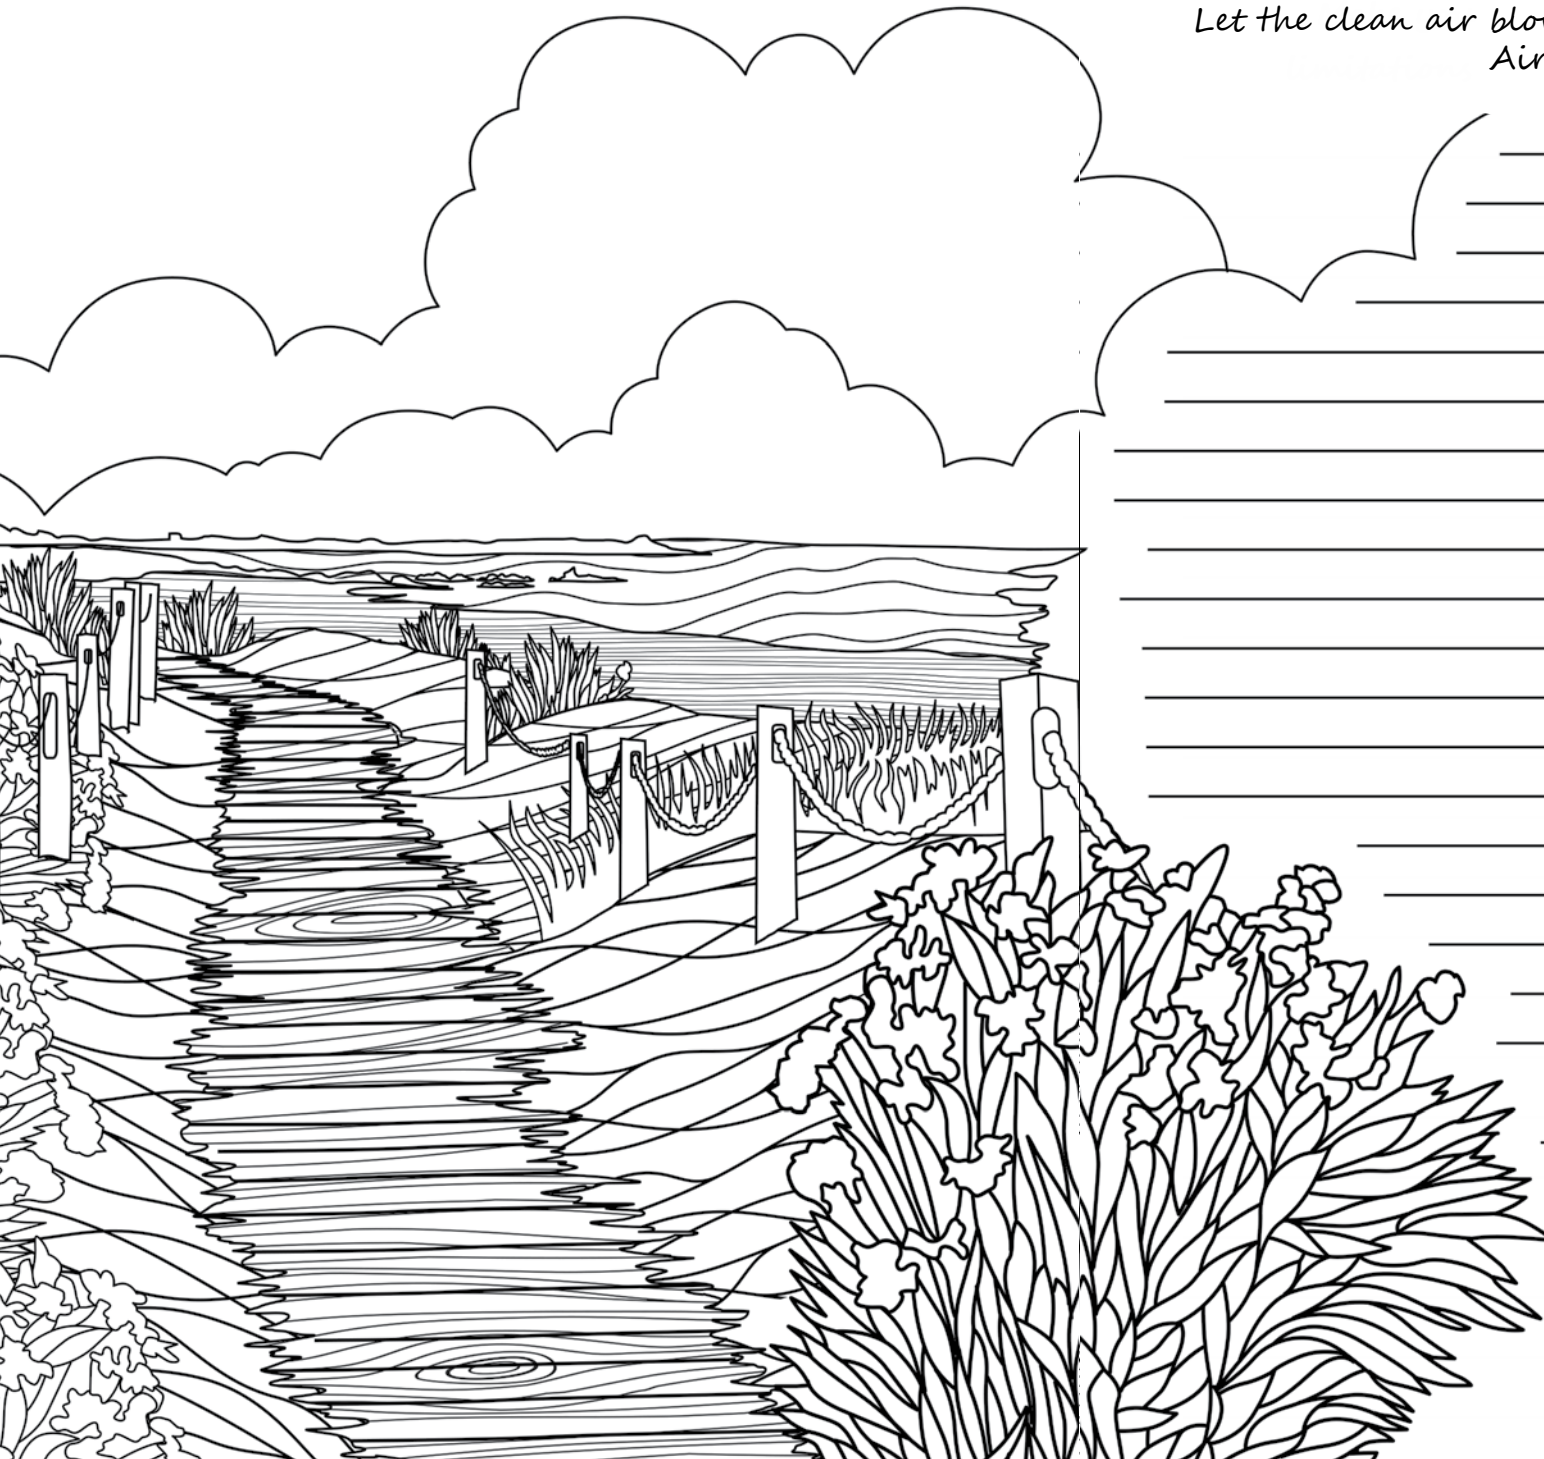

[illegible][illegible]

[illegible]

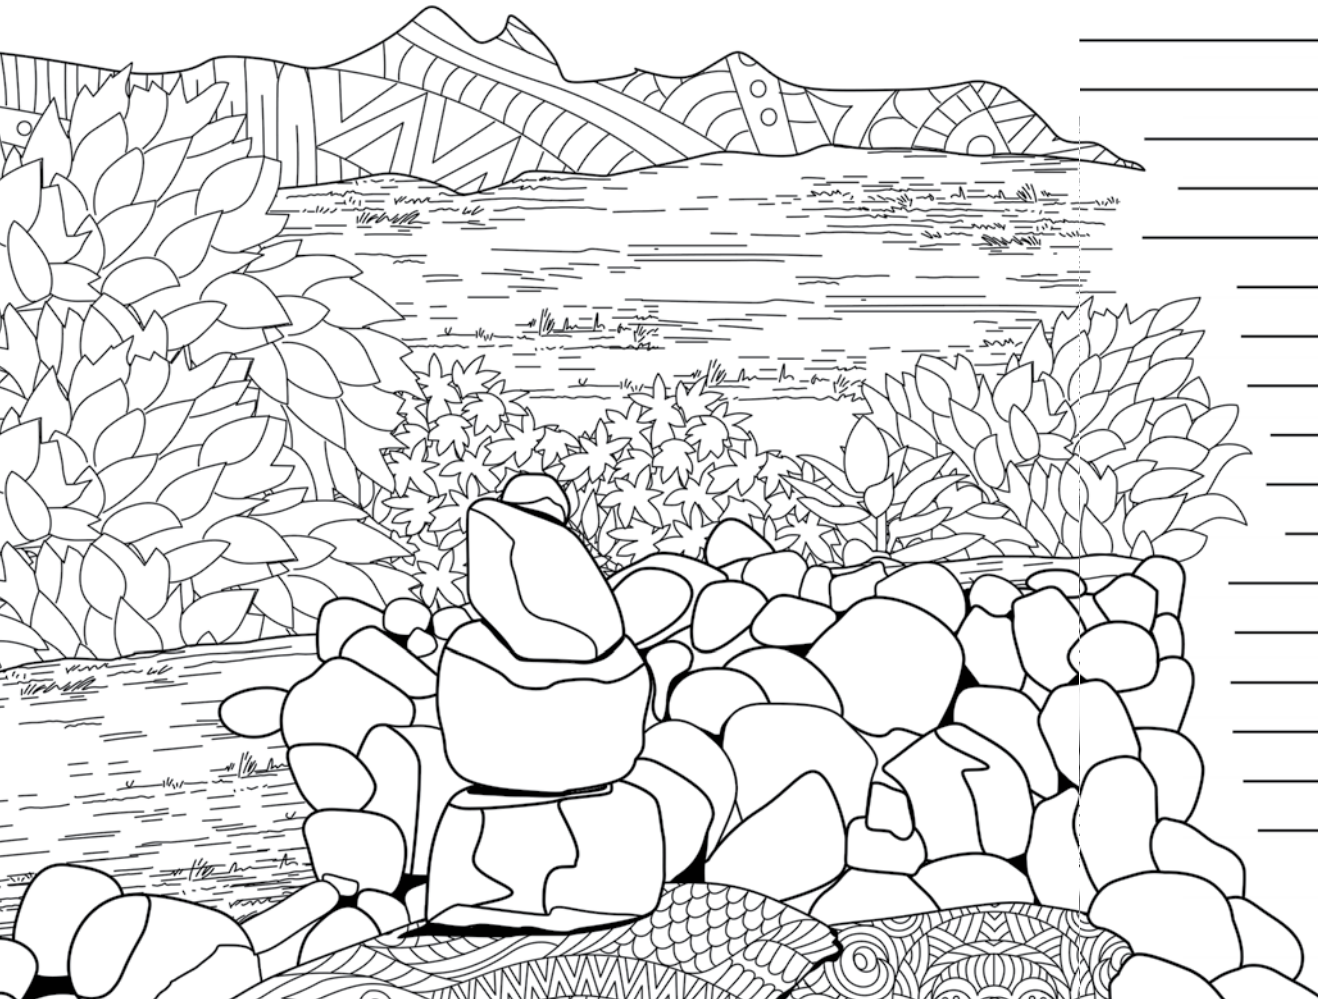

Let the clean air blow the cobwebs from your body.
Air is medicine.

-Lillian Russell

A series of horizontal lines for writing, organized into two groups. The first group consists of three lines, and the second group consists of ten lines. These lines are intended for a student to write a response to the quote.

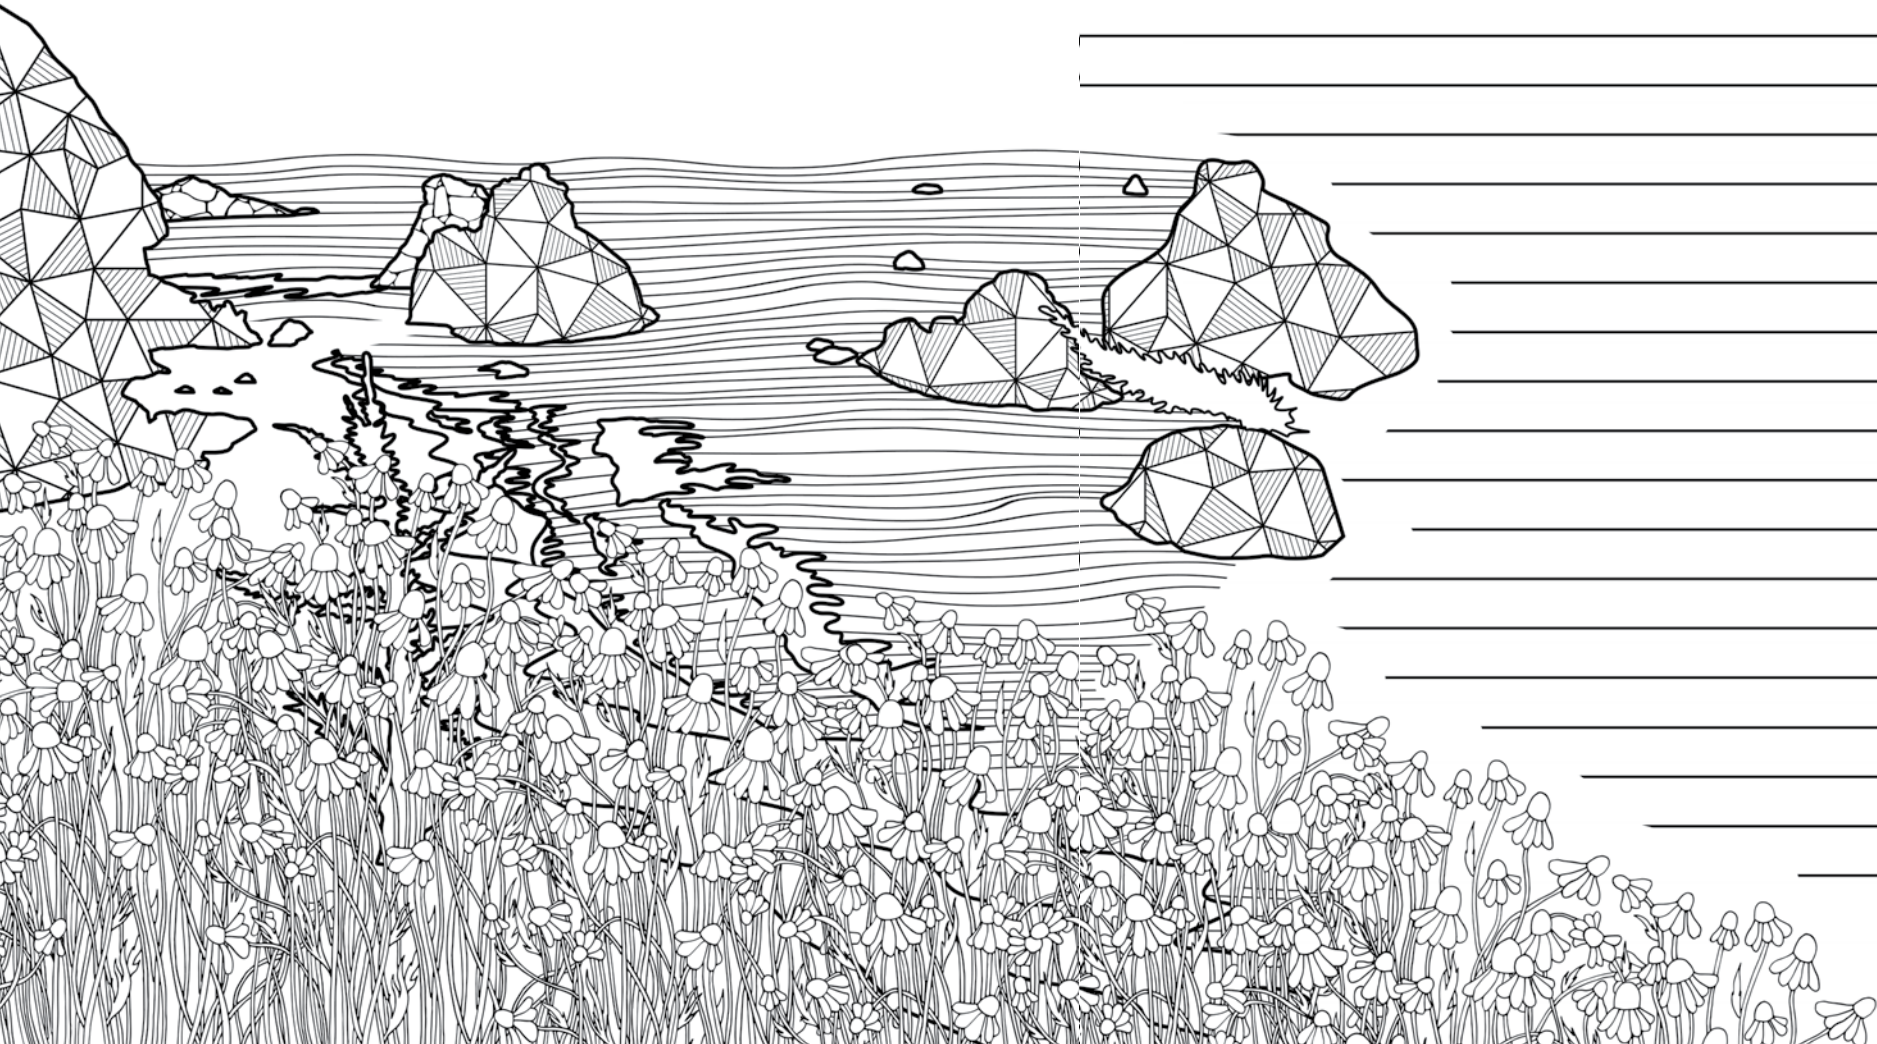

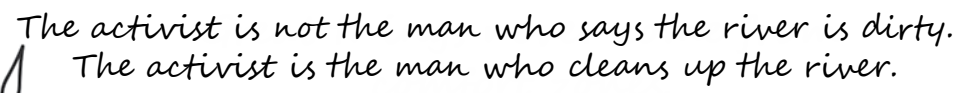

A black and white line drawing of a garden scene. The foreground is filled with tall, slender grass blades and several daisy-like flowers with multiple petals. Four butterflies are depicted in various positions: one in the upper right, one in the middle left, one in the center, and one in the lower left. Each butterfly has a unique wing pattern, including spots, stripes, and intricate line work. The entire scene is enclosed within a decorative border that features a repeating pattern of stylized leaves and flowers.

[illegible]

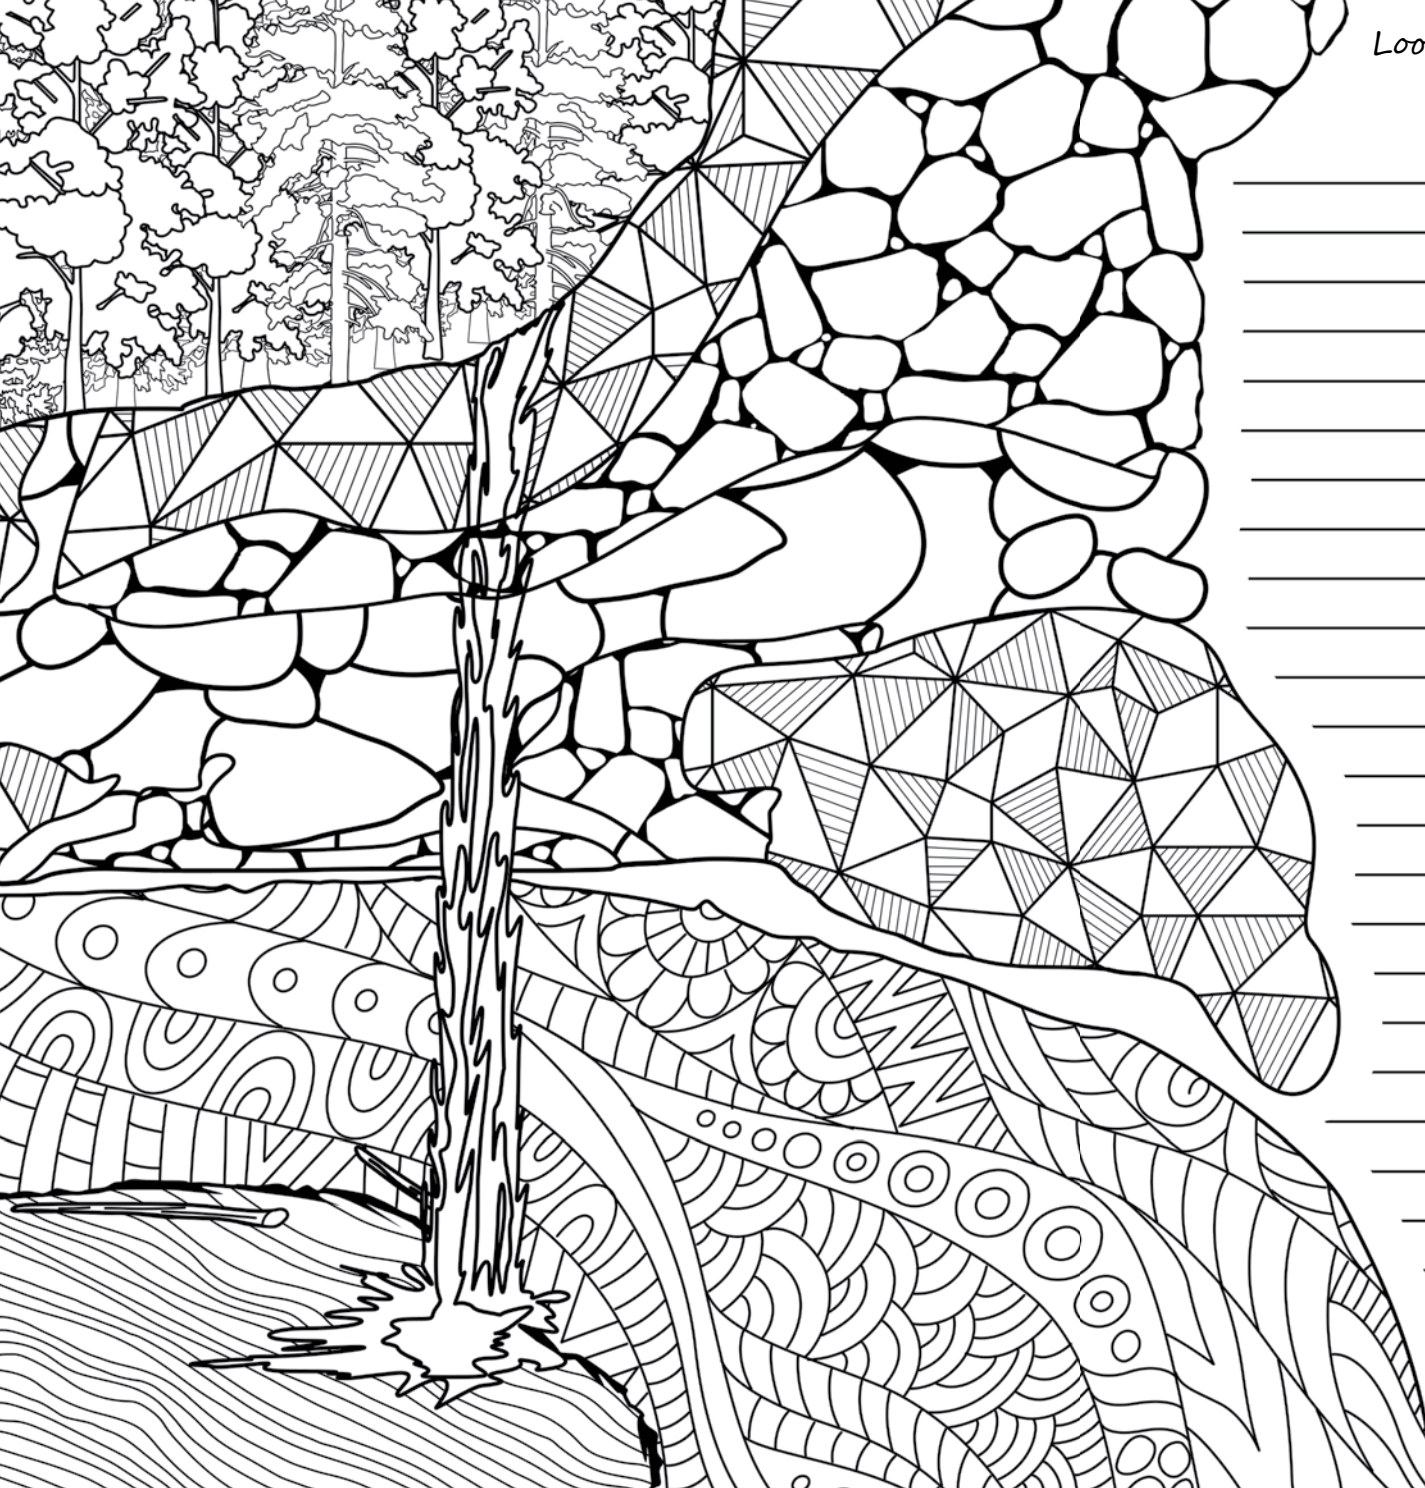

Plans to protect air and water, wilderness and wildlife are in fact plans to protect man

-Stewart Udall

[illegible]

This image shows a blank sheet of white paper with horizontal blue lines. On the left edge, there are two small, stylized tree cutouts made of black outlines. The top tree is positioned between the second and third lines from the top. The bottom tree is positioned between the eighth and ninth lines from the top. The rest of the page is empty except for the lines.

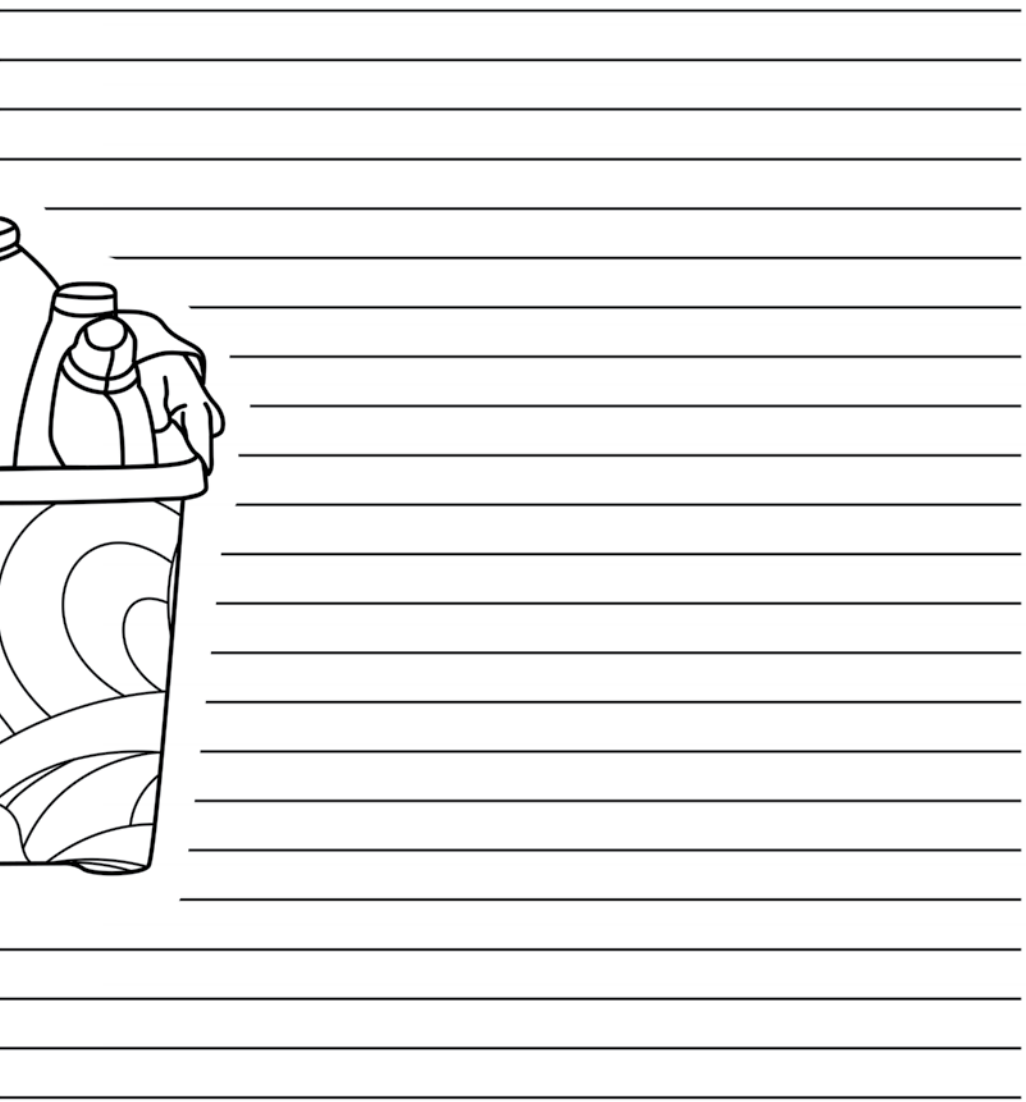

Look deep into nature, and then you will understand everything better.

-Albert Einstein

[illegible]

A line drawing of a hand holding a tray with three bottles, positioned on the left side of a page with horizontal lines. The hand is holding the tray from underneath, and the bottles are standing upright on the tray. The page has horizontal lines for writing.

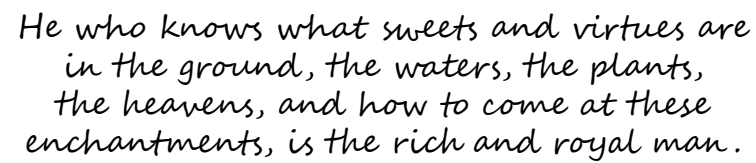

A line drawing of a hand holding a tray with three bottles, positioned on the left side of a page with horizontal lines. The hand is holding the tray from underneath, and the bottles are standing upright on the tray. The page has horizontal lines for writing.

Nature provides a free lunch, but only if we control our appetites.

-William Ruckelshaus

This image shows a blank sheet of white paper with horizontal blue ruling lines. On the left side, there is a decorative border consisting of several stylized leaves or petals arranged vertically. The lines are evenly spaced and extend across most of the width of the page.

This image shows a single sheet of white paper with horizontal blue or grey ruling lines. The lines are evenly spaced and run across the width of the page. There are approximately 20 lines visible. The paper has a slight shadow on its right side, suggesting it's resting on a surface.

A black and white line drawing of a turtle swimming in water. The turtle is positioned on the left side of the page, facing right. Its head is slightly above the water line, and its front flippers are extended forward. The back of the turtle is covered in a pattern of overlapping scales. The water is represented by horizontal lines of varying lengths, creating a sense of movement. In the bottom left corner, there is a small, stylized plant with long, pointed leaves. The entire drawing is set against a background of horizontal lines, which are intended for writing.

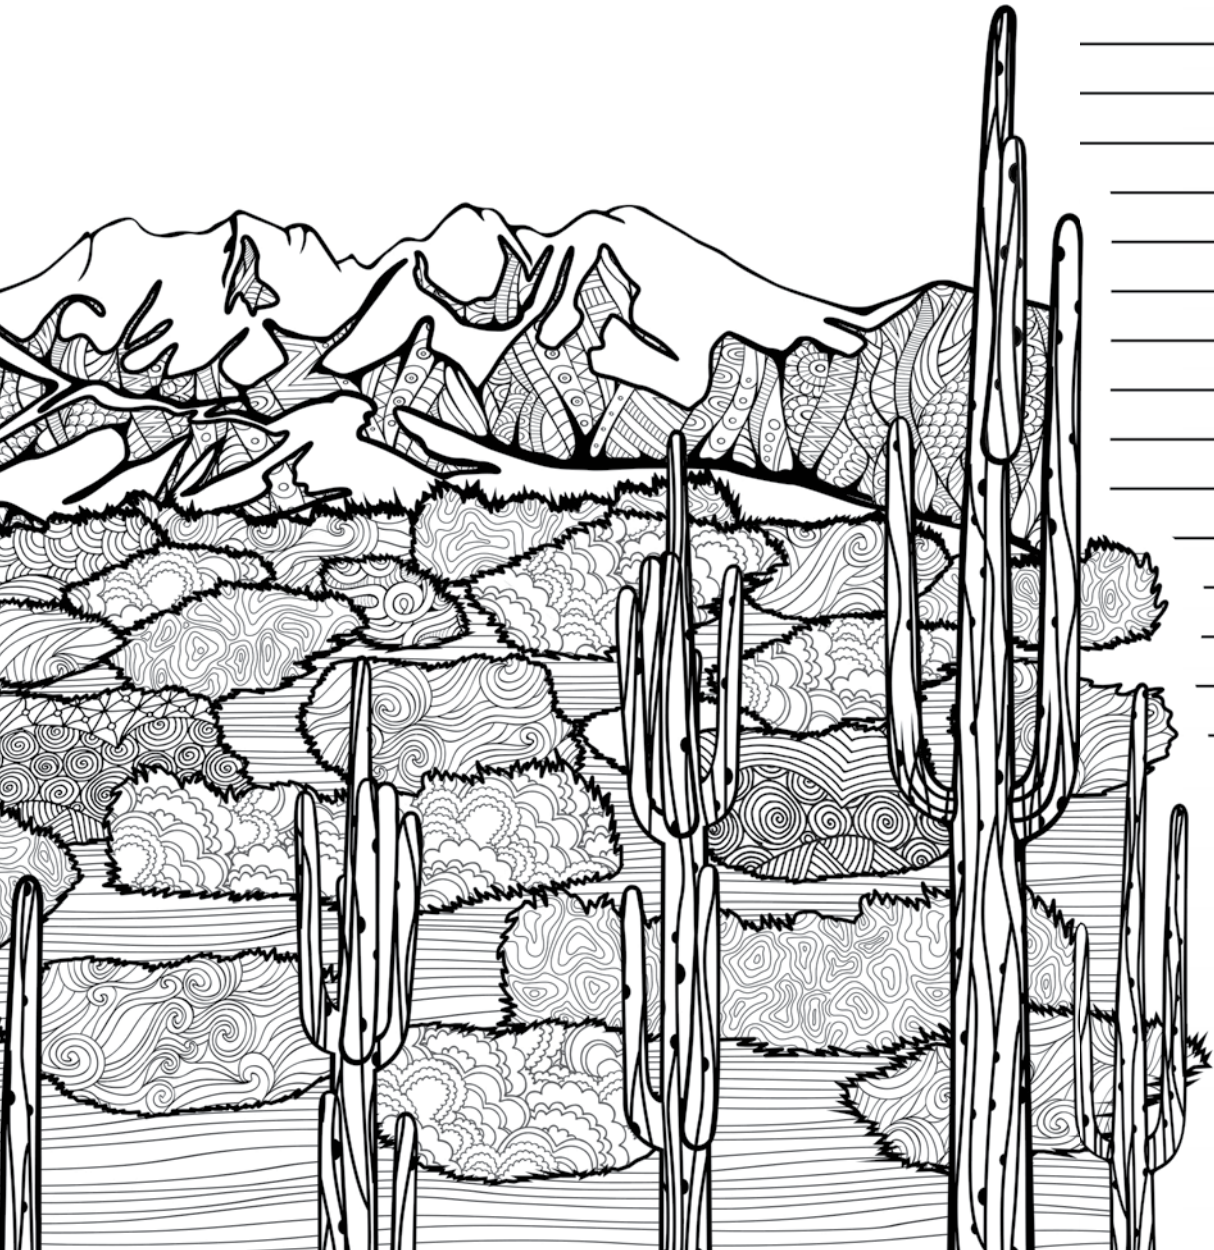

Out of all those millions and millions of planets floating around there in space, this is our planet, this is our little one, so we just got to be aware of it and take care of it.

-Paul McCartney

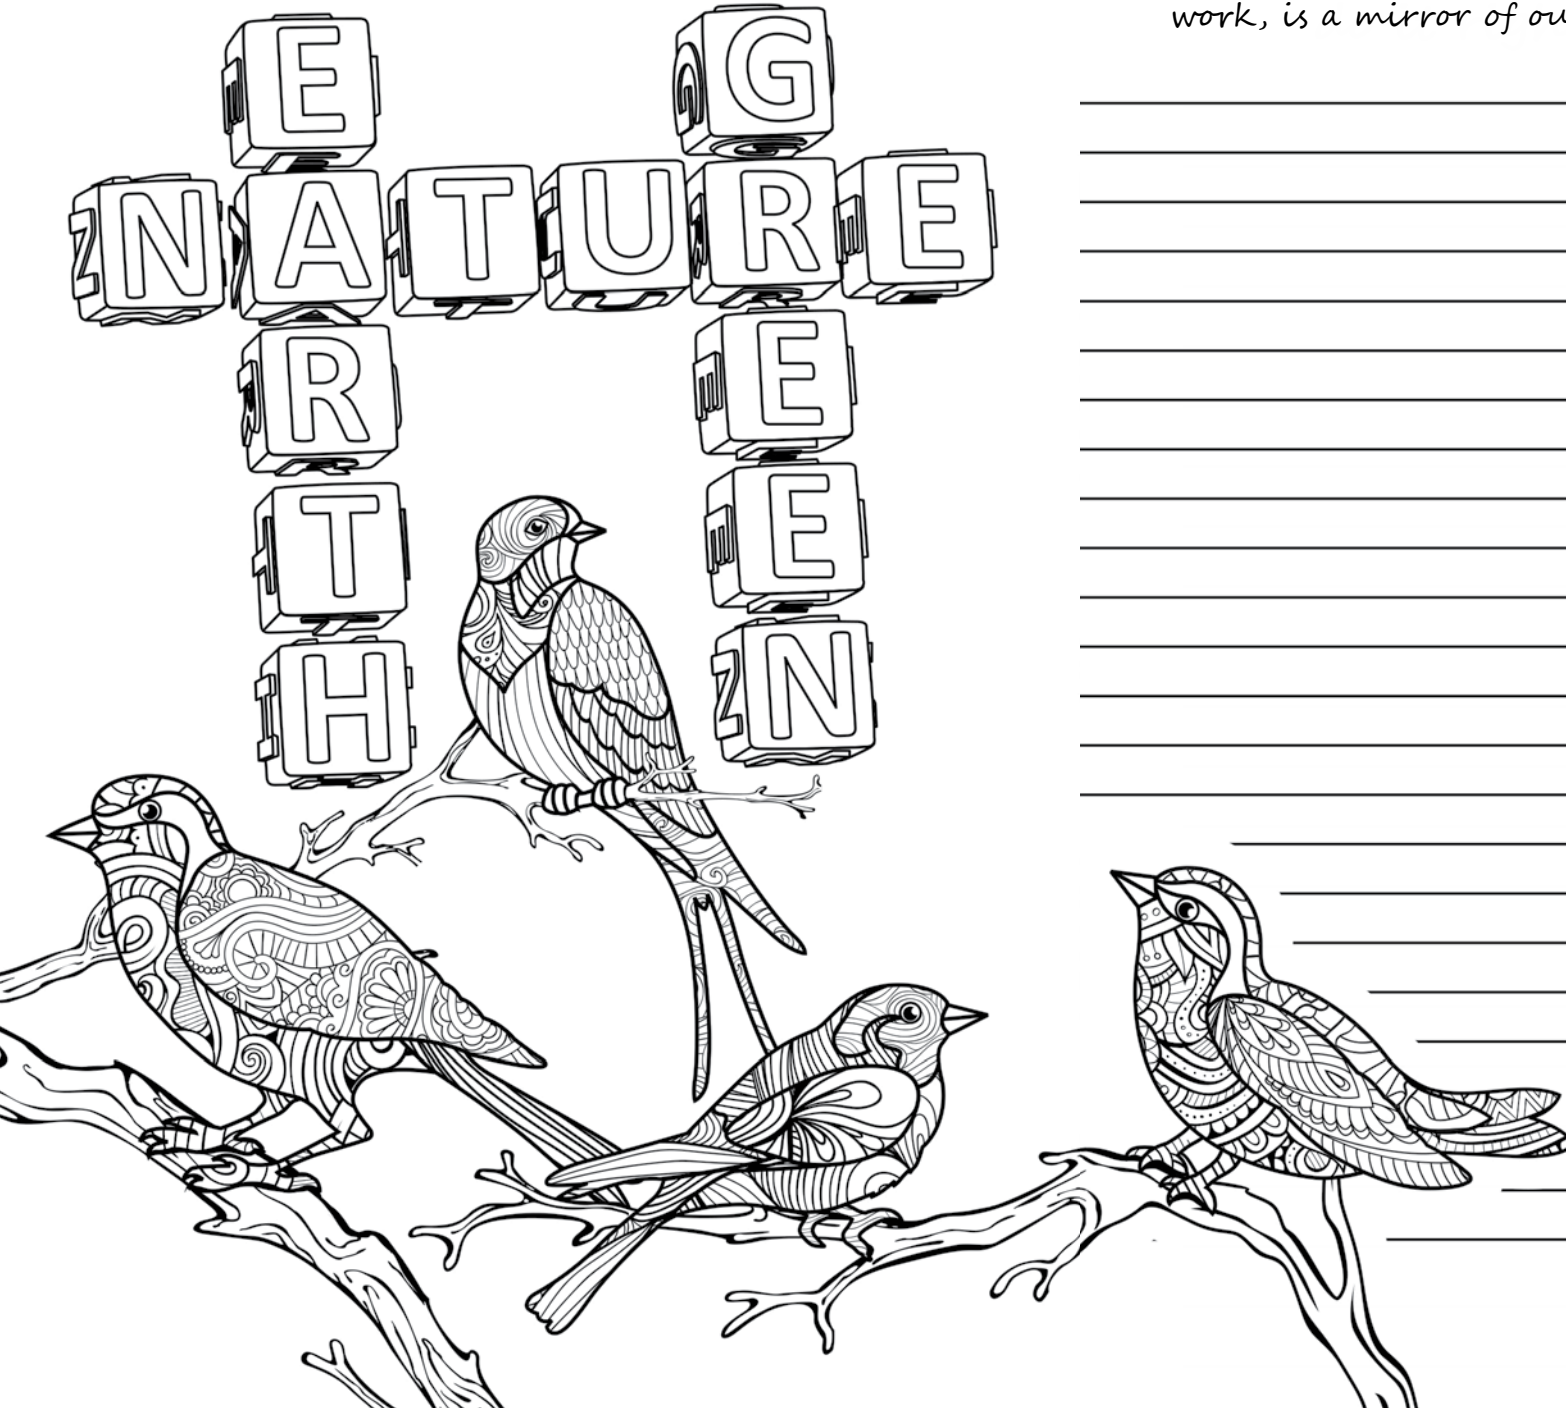

[illegible]

This image shows a blank sheet of white paper with horizontal blue ruling lines. On the left margin, there are three black-and-white line drawings. From top to bottom, they are: a small, bushy tree; a thick tree trunk with bark texture; and a saguaro-style cactus with two arms. The rest of the page is empty space between the lines.

Our environment, the world in which we live and work, is a mirror of our attitudes and expectations.

-Earl Nightingale

[illegible][illegible]

In wilderness is the preservation of the world.

-Henry David Thoreau

In wilderness is the preservation of the world.

-Henry David Thoreau

A line drawing of a sailboat is positioned on the left side of the page. The sailboat is shown from a side profile, with its mast and sails visible. The sails are decorated with various patterns, including stripes and circles. The hull of the boat is also visible. The drawing is simple and appears to be a template for coloring or a decorative element. The rest of the page is filled with horizontal ruling lines, which are evenly spaced and extend across the width of the page.

A line drawing of a sailboat is positioned on the left side of the page. The sailboat is shown from a side profile, with its mast and sails visible. The sails are decorated with various patterns, including stripes and circles. The hull of the boat is also visible. The drawing is simple and appears to be a template for coloring or a decorative element. The rest of the page is filled with horizontal ruling lines, which are evenly spaced and extend across the width of the page.

